CITY NATIONAL BANK OF KANSAS CITY IS CLOSED

Held a Large Amount of Securities of Devlin's Bank at Topeka, Which Recently Went to the Wall.

COMPTROLLER ORDERS BAD PAPER MADE GOOD

Failure to Do So Resulted in Shutting Doors—President Orebo Is Also President of Two Other Banks.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 20.—The City National Bank failed to open its doors today.

The bank held paper of C. J. Devlin of Topeka to the amount of upwards of $100,000 and the failure is the direct result of the closing of the First National Bank of Topeka, of which Mr. Devlin was the principal stockholder.

Some time after the comptroller of the currency at Washington instructed the officers of the City National Bank to repair its capital. This was done by borrowing from a local capitalist. Following the failure of the First National Bank at Topeka, the comptroller became insistent on repayment of his loan, and this demand caused the officers of the City National to decide upon closing their institution.

The only other bank in Kansas City which was caught in the failure of the First National Bank of Topeka was the American National Bank of Kansas City, which is said to hold upwards of $200,000 Devlin paper. It was stated positively today to the Associated Press by a leading banker that the other Kansas City institutions would not permit this bank to fail.

There was no appearance of a run on other Kansas City banks at the opening hour today.

The City National Bank was organized in 1890 and is one of the youngest of the national banking institutions in the city. Its capital is $300,000 and it has deposits of $1,476,648.

Its officers are: Edward Orebo, president; James C. S. Brown, cashier; John Moore, vice-president; Charles A. Loomis, second vice-president.

The last statement of the City National Bank issued on May 29, 1905, showed the following:

Loans and discounts	$1,038,945.70
Overdrafts	639.80
United States bonds	28,607.50
Cash and sight exchange	606,467.32
Total	$1,906,720.12
LIABILITIES
Capital stock	$300,000.00
Undivided profits	8,071.18
Circulation	210,000.00
Deposits	1,476,648.94
Total	$1,906,720.12

Ordered to Take Up Bad Paper

The bank was closed by E. E. Ames, bank examiner, under instructions from the comptroller of the currency.

The comptroller made yesterday, it is stated, informed the officers of the bank that it must take up $300,000 bad paper immediately or they would not be permitted to open today.

The bank was examined last night by a committee of local bankers who reported at a meeting early today that the affairs of the institution were in such shape that they would not feel justified in extending assistance.

At no time had a run of any big proportions been on, but it is stated, with drawings had been made quietly for several months and that within 48 days $800,000 had been taken out. The majority of the bank's depositors are persons in medium circumstances, two-thirds of whom live outside Kansas City.

No Excitement at Closing.

There was no excitement at the doors of the bank when it was closed yesterday, as was posted today, less than a dozen depositors appearing to withdraw their money.

Aside from the notice placed on the bank door by Examiner Ames, which simply stated that the bank was closed by order of the comptroller of the currency, was pasted on the latter:

"Present all drafts drawn by the following banks on the City National Bank of Kansas City, Mo., to the National Bank of Commerce, Kansas City, Mo., for payment: Citizens Bank of Greeley, Kan.; Citizens Bank of Belle Plaine, Kan.; Citizens State Bank, Osgo, Kan.; Citizens State Bank, Edna, Kan.; Citizens State Bank, Kan."

The posting of the second notice developed that other Kansas City banks, knowing that the City National was to fail, wired certain of the latter's outside customers, principally small nearby banks, that they would pay certain drafts drawn on the City National Bank.

The City National Bank has had a varied experience in its 15 years of existence. It has had four sets of officers, and on numerous occasions the comptroller of the currency has been on its officers to repair its capital or better conform in other ways with the banking laws.

DRIVERS' STRIKE ENDING.

Lumber Co. Employees Vote Resumption in Spite of Leaders.

CHICAGO, July 20.—The strike of the lumber drivers in this city has been declared off.

The 60 striking employees voted unanimously in favor of returning to their old places regardless of the action of fellow strikers.

Other local unions of teamsters with similar action by referendum vote.

SHOWERS, COOLER TONIGHT

Hot Wave Is Thoroughly Dissipated and Entire Country Enjoys Breezes.

Rain began falling about 10 a. m. Monday. The Weather Bureau believes that light showers will be had at intervals by St. Louis all through the day and night.

The cooler wave may develop in a really cool wave, the forecast thinks, saying that a further drop of 10 degrees before morning is not an improbability. The temperature was 78 at noon.

The official forecast: "Unsettled, with showers and a d cooler tonight. Friday partly cloudy, with moderate temperature; light to fresh northerly winds."

The Eastern States, the Ohio Valley, the Lake region and the Mississippi and Missouri valleys are sharers in the St. Louis coolness. It remains warm in the South Atlantic States, the Gulf States and west of the Rockies.

Temperatures at 7 a. m.—St. Louis, 78; New York, 78; Boston, 78; Philadelphia, 78; Washington, 78; Chicago, 74; Minneapolis, 66; Cincinnati, 78.

SALOONS AS MANY, DESPITE THE LID

Excise Commissioner Says There are 2604 to 2304 in 1903.

The belief that Sunday closing has put many St. Louis saloons out of business, that he says he has reason to believe that in most instances the same proprietors still conduct the business, under other names.

Since July 1, the commissioner says, he had issued or renewed 380 dram shop licenses. Between Jan. 1 and July 1, 1904, 388 were issued. On file are 38 applications.

The highest number ever in force in St. Louis was 3994, during the Exposition. Jan. 1, 1904, 3294 were in force and Jan. 1, 1903, 3224.

STRIKE COST ENORMOUS

United Mine Workers Have Spent $1,500,000 in Tennessee Coal War.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, July 20.—That $1,500,000 has been spent by the United Mine Workers' Union of America, of which John Mitchell is president, to keep alive the strike in the mines of the Tennessee Coal & Iron Co., was asserted by a witness yesterday before a congressional committee.

This witness declared that the union paid $200,000 or $300,000 a day to support the striking miners and that the union had been able to keep alive the strike for several months.

The evidence came out in the trial of John Mitchell, who is charged with conspiracy to defraud the Tennessee Coal & Iron Co. of $1,500,000.

The revelations disclose the desperate and costly warfare engaged in between the mine workers and the company and how Mitchell and his men have been able to maintain their position.

BAPTISTS INDORSE FOLK.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., July 20.—Gov. Folk entertained the Riverside and Central Theological and Baptist institute last night. The institute already had said in resolutions what a fine man the Governor is. And this is the language in which it was said:

"We commend him to all men in his true and true patriotism, a loyal citizen and a true patriot, a loyal citizen and a true patriot."

"We are in full and hearty sympathy with him in his efforts to execute the laws of the commonwealth of Missouri."

"We can assure him that the people will stand by him in his efforts, and that they will stand by him to the end."

MONEY NEEDED TO SAVE THE SICK CHILDREN

Cooler Weather Mitigates Their Sufferings, but the Calls for Ice and Milk Continue From All Over the City.

AGENCIES THAT AID IN THE WORK

Scope and Plan of Pure Milk Commission and Work of King's Daughters' Circle—Children Can Help.

Notwithstanding the advent of somewhat cooler weather the need for ice and pure milk to save the babies and comfort invalids among the poor of St. Louis continues great, and money must be provided for these great charities.

The Post-Dispatch is custodian of the Free Ice and Pure Milk Fund and will acknowledge in these columns all subscriptions received.

Children can help the work greatly by collecting funds from their friends, by giving lawn parties and plays, and "keeping store." Those who, in previous years, have engaged in this labor for charity have had much pleasure and added considerable sums to the fund.

Free ice is distributed to the poor of St. Louis by means of the ticket system. A strip of ten tickets is given to each family. At the head is the name of the family, the address and the notice to the ice man that they are to be provided with ice.

The ice given for each ticket amounts to 5 cents' worth. In case of illness the amount is doubled.

Ice is given in all cases where it is needed. Investigation is made by the visitor of the Free Ice and Sick Diet Circle of the King's Daughters who distribute the tickets.

The visitor, Miss Louise Hill, who considers ice absolutely necessary for the health of the babies of St. Louis, without it, she thinks, it is impossible to accomplish good with the milk provided by the Pure Milk Commission.

Pure milk is no better than other milk in the same condition.

Distributing Pure Milk.

Pure milk is given out at 20 different stations. In each case with the exception of the station at the Broadway Settlement, the distributors of the milk make no charge for their services.

Because of the milk laws of Missouri it is impossible for milk to be given out without a physician's prescription.

Without it a physician's prescription, but those who have caused much annoyance, but physicians who are willing to prescribe without charge have been found.

Not wishing to pauperize their customers, a nominal charge is made for the milk in all cases where it is possible for that to be paid. No baby is deprived of milk, however, because its parents cannot pay for the same.

Distributors notice when customers cease applying for milk, and a visit is then made to the mother of the child. When want of money is found to be the cause she is given an order for free milk.

The pure milk is made as much like the mother's milk as possible and contains lime-water for health reasons.

Four formulas are used and the milk is placed in bottles that contain enough for one feeding.

For infants of one and two months two-ounce bottles are provided; for those of three and four months, four-ounce bottles; for those of five and six months, seven-ounce bottles; for those of ten months and upwards, whole milk in eight-ounce bottles.

The following directions, printed on a card in four different languages—English, German, Italian and Yiddish—is given the mother of the child:

"GET FRESH MILK EVERY DAY. DO NOT FEED A CHILD WITH MILK YOU HAVE HAD OVER NIGHT."

"Keep the bottles of milk in a cool place. Use a fresh bottle for every feeding. Leave the bottle of milk in a pail or a can of warm water for about 10 minutes before feeding the child, but do not boil the milk."

"Throw away the milk which is left in the bottle after the child is done."

JAIL ENDS GIRLS' PURSUIT OF WEALTH; ONE STOLE CLOTHING

HELEN KELLER.

Work in Litchfield, Ill., Hotel Not as Promised, They Gave Skirt and Waist for Fare Home.

Helen Keller of 2783 Chouteau avenue, and Laura Groves of 3317 La Salle street, who left St. Louis on the recommendation of a Pine street employment agency to make as they supposed large salaries as waitresses in a hotel in Litchfield, Ill., will return to their homes Friday, after an absence of just a week, made some sadder and much wiser by bitter experiences including jail imprisonment.

Helen Keller was 13 years old the day she left home to go to work. Her father, Herman Keller, is a contractor and Helen had never done any work away from home.

The man at the employment agency told us, said Laura Groves to a Post-Dispatch reporter, "that we could make $3.50 a week at the Litchfield Hotel, and that we would make another $3 a week on tips. He said the work was light, and that no experience was necessary."

"When we went there it took all the money we had to pay our railroad fare. The steward, Mr. Washer, showed us that we had been deceived by the employment agency. He told us that as we were not experienced he could not pay us full wages, but he would take us on as business was dull and in a week or ten days we would be experienced enough to draw the same salary as the other girls. He also told us that he would expect five days' notice to quit, and if we quit without that he would not pay us for what time we had worked."

"The work was hard. We had to scrub the floor and polish the silverware. We were anxious to go home but he told us to wait. He said, 'If you quit now you will be blacklisted. If you wait a week we will give you a skirt and a waist for your fare home.'"

"On the last night that we were there Helen was waiting on a man named 'Tom'. He was a very nice man, but he was not what we had been told. He was a very nice man, but he was not what we had been told. He was a very nice man, but he was not what we had been told."

DELMAR "RACE" HORSES GOING TO DOG POUND?

Gov. Folk Has Planned Coup to Put Effective End to Bookmakers' Operations—Detectives Gathering Evidence.

ARREST OF JOCKEYS AT CITY LINE SUGGESTED

Track Is Partly Within Corporate Limits and Police Detail Might Stop Horses and Riders There.

Gov. Folk has planned a coup to put the Delmar racetrack out of business. He made this statement to a Post-Dispatch reporter at Jefferson City Thursday.

Detectives Killian and Cabanne of Chief Desmond's headquarters staff are the instruments through whom he is working to establish the basis for his stroke against the bookmakers.

Every day these two men visit the Delmar racetrack and remain there throughout the racing hours.

They make daily reports that reach Gov. Folk in Jefferson City every evening.

Killian and Cabanne were selected for this duty because of their familiarity with the racing game. They know its ins and outs thoroughly, they are intimately versed in all its features, and every bookmaker on the track is known to them, together with the distinctive methods of each.

They were assigned after Gov. Folk had made a request to the Police Board for two detectives to report to him on the Delmar track operations.

On the assignment book in the office of Chief of Detectives, Desmond the names of Killian and Cabanne appear on duty at Delmar racetrack looking for thieves, pickpockets, confidence men and such other members of the criminal class as are likely to frequent the place.

They are among the first to report at Delmar racetrack each week day. The track officials, bookmakers and others receive them cordially.

Have Names of Bettors. The detectives are keeping an exhaustive record of every transaction witnessed at Delmar racetrack. They circulate freely among the bettors and have the names of many of them. They have seen "playing the ponies" of late.

Most of their time is spent in the betting ring. There they have made accurate memoranda of betting transactions to which they were eye-witnesses, including the time, the race, the horses on which the bets are placed, the bookmakers taking the bets, the names of bettors. These are mailed daily to Jefferson City. They are the evidence of witnesses competent to testify in a law court.

Until the "psychological moment" has arrived the detectives will continue their task of collecting such evidence.

The Governor's final move against the bookmakers is expected to bring conclusive results in one round. It has been suggested that its first phase might be a surprisingly new method of attack.

The eastern sweep of Delmar racetrack is within the corporate limits of the city of St. Louis. Just the moment the horses and jockeys in a race come into this section of the track they are within the jurisdiction of the city of St. Louis.

Police on Track. Therefore, it has been suggested, that Gov. Folk take a detail of police to the point where the track enters the city to arrest horses and jockeys as soon as they pass into St. Louis jurisdiction.

The jockeys would be taken at once to the St. Louis City Jail.

The horses would be impounded and placed in the dog pound.

This, it is suggested, might be done in every race attempted.

FINED $50 FOR ASSAULT.

Foreman Says He Was Attacked by Workman Who Quit.

Paul J. Moran, 615 Hickory street, was fined $50 and costs by Judge Tracy of City Hall Police Court Thursday for striking a workman.

Moran was charged with "a most vicious assault" on Temple Gardner, 2808 Cook avenue. Gardner is a former workman on the Delmar racetrack.

The evidence showed that several workmen had quit because of his taking the job. One of these was Moran.

Gardner says he was struck in the face by Moran while on his way home from work Wednesday evening, and that other workmen joined in an attack on him.

SMALLEST BABY YIELDS AT LAST

John Paul Jones, After Living Seven Days, Succumbs to Spasms.

ATE AND GAINED FLESH

Though It Weighed but Twenty-Eight Ounces at Birth, It Seemed Healthy.

John Paul Jones Dill, the smallest baby in St. Louis, died Wednesday night in a spasm, after living seven days, and apparently gaining much strength and weight.

Until 10 o'clock Wednesday, the child was remarkably free from the usual ailments of extremely weakly babies and its condition at that time was such that Dr. H. W. Faber, physician in charge, thought that he had succeeded in saving its life.

During the last three days it was visited by hundreds of mothers who live near the home of its parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Dill, 3043 South Broadway, who had read of this remarkable child in the Post-Dispatch.

Ten Inches Long at Birth.
At birth it measured a little less than 10 inches in length and weighed 28 ounces and that it lived for a week is considered remarkable by physicians to whose attention the case was called.

Unless seen, it was hard to believe that such a small child could live. The head measured less than 9 inches around and the little hands were about the size of a man's thumb. Paul's feet were not two inches long and the fingers were scarcely larger around than a match. The first two joints of a man's forefinger were longer than his arm from wrist to elbow and his toes were almost microscopic in size.

The child did not appear young when born. The face was as full of wrinkles as that of an extremely aged person. These wrinkles soon disappeared under the fatty guano treatment by which the body was nourished and the child seemed to have begun to gain flesh.

Fed From Dropper.
Until the day of death, little Paul was fed five drops of water and a little milk from a medicine dropper every two hours. He seemed to object to the slowness of the medicine dropper mode of feeding and a small spoon was substituted Wednesday night.

Over feeding due to the spoon is considered responsible for the child's death. Some defect in his internal organs probably contributed to bring on the spasm, which carried him off on the third attack.

Mrs. Dill, the mother, is almost prostrated under the grief. She is a woman who saw the child sympathizing with her and many have called or sent messages of condolence for the funeral will be made Thursday.

SACK SALAMANCA HALL

Members of Municipal Council Killed—Fear Spread of Disorders.

MADRID, July 20.—Serious disorders have occurred at Seville and Salamanca, arising from the general distress. Four hundred farm laborers invaded Seville, looted the bakeries and shops and committed other depredations until they were dispersed by a strong force of police and gendarmes.

A mob, stormed the City Hall at Salamanca, broke into the building and sacked it. A member of the Municipal Council fleeing from the rioters jumped from a window and was killed.

The Republicans are summoning mass meetings in Madrid and elsewhere. The Government fears a spread of the disorders and is taking precautions.

"TAD" LINCOLN'S PLAYMATE.
NEW YORK, July 20.—Gustave A. Schurman, one of the youngest men to enlist in the Northern Army at the beginning of the Civil War, drummer boy and bugler for Gen. Birney, Stoneman and Sickles, and friend and playmate for months at the White House of little "Tad" Lincoln, is dead at the home of his daughter in this city.

He was a bookish, only eleven years old when the war began.

The lady's father prevailed upon Col. Riley of the 6th New York to take him to the front. At Belle Plaine the youngster met "Tad" Lincoln who had accompanied the president and his mother on a visit to the army. President Lincoln told Gen. Sickles that they needed diversion at the White House. It is believed their wish was attained as there are still stories of two boys to whom such a thing as a cabinet meeting had no terrors.

PURE MILK BABY SAVED BY CRYING

THE HOLMES BABY.
2813 CHOUTEAU AVE.

BY ROSE MARION.

CROWS have taken the place of cries in the Holmes home at 2813 Chouteau avenue. Marie Holmes, aged seven months, is no longer a peasant, she finds joy in pinching her toes since they've begun to grow chubby.

Marie wasn't so joyous a short time ago. She was a frail little baby then with just enough flesh to hold her little bones together. She didn't "go" for anybody and sometimes she grew so tired of it all that she just cried and cried.

She didn't want much food and she didn't care a snap for playthings. Her mother, Mrs. M. E. Holmes, tried many things to keep Marie from crying. She made new toys, she walked the baby, she sang songs and sometimes she grew so discouraged that she wanted to stop and cry with Marie.

Mrs. Holmes' own childhood isn't so far away and Marie is her first baby. Her baby seemed to grow thinner and thinner and the coming of the summer heat made the child more miserable. Not all cries are in vain. Miss Louise Hill, the visitor of the King's Daughters, who is doing all she can to further the use of pure milk feeds sick babies by their cries.

She heard little Marie's weak plaint when she walked down Chouteau avenue and she visited Mrs. Holmes. Mrs. Holmes was glad to receive any advice. She was more than willing to go to Kleinman's candy store at 2813 Chouteau avenue for milk for Marie.

Marie has been receiving her bottles regularly and she's glad the "d" doesn't cover milk bottles. The tears have been rubbed out of her eyes and now they're almost as bright blue as those of her mother.

The heat spots have partially gone from her body and her little face is trying to grow round.

A few more bottles and little Marie will be owing dimples.

feeding, then rinse the bottles with clean water.

"Do not remove the stopper from the bottle until you are ready to use it. Use a clean nipple for each feeding. Return the bottles and cork to the depot. Tack up this card where you can see it."

Between 1600 and 1700 bottles are distributed daily. This is an increase of 1000 bottles in the last month.

Cards proclaiming the good of pure milk have been placed about the city together with the price of the milk—one cent and two cents per bottle.

Miss Hill has made a canvass of the city, visiting every home where there is a baby and in all cases where a bottle is used she has made every effort to have pure milk used instead of any other.

Pure milk is possible because of the interest of St. Louisians who gave subscriptions for the laboratory, but more money is needed for its continuance.

The pure milk commission contends that over 25 per cent of the entire death rate of St. Louis is among children under five years of age. Defective feeding is held largely responsible for this appalling mortality.

The officers of the commission are: Dr. Albert Merrell, President; Mr. Bernard Greenfield, First Vice-President; Mrs. Emily N. Moore, Second Vice-President; Miss Mary Hoxey, Third Vice-President; Mr. W. H. McLaughlin, Secretary; Mr. Isaac H. Orr, Treasurer; Dr. George M. Tuttle, Chairman Committee on Milk; Mr. Walter Bernay, Secretary Committee on Milk; Mr. L. L. King, Chairman Finance Committee; Mr. J. H. Lynch, Chairman Distribution Committee; Miss Jennie Hidenbrandt, Secretary Distribution Committee.

SECRETARY SWANGER ON LEWIS; JUDGE M'PHERSON ON LEWIS

Secretary of State Swanger's famous letter of June 8 indorsing the Lewis bank, which he prints in the August number of his magazine as an advertisement, is reread with renewed interest in connection with the opinion of Judge McPherson of the United States Circuit Court denying the injunction asked by the bank to restrain the Postmaster from refusing it the use of the mails. Here is a copy of the letter together with extracts from the opinion of Judge McPherson:

THE FAMOUS SWANGER LETTER

ST. LOUIS, June 2, 1905.
To the Board of Directors of the People's United States Bank.

Gentlemen: The steps you have taken in the reorganization of the directory of the People's United States Bank by the election of Mr. Theodore F. Meyer and Mr. James F. Coyle as members of the board give me assurance that the directory of this bank will be composed of men who will be a guarantee for the safe conduct of its business, and are satisfactory to this department. Your agreement to conform to all of the requirements of the department justifies me in withdrawing any objection to the bank's operation at this time, and I am glad to state that the bank is now in operation for the conduct of all its business and that I have full confidence that the suggestions of the department will be fully complied with.

JOHN E. SWANGER,
Secretary of State.

In using this letter in full as an advertisement, Lewis made a statement, saying among other things: "The extraordinary scrutiny to which all of our affairs have been subjected has resulted in demonstrating the absolute soundness of our assets, and the statement finally made by the Secretary of State is 'the best evidence that our management intends, not merely to comply with the law, but to go far beyond that requirement in endeavoring to secure the most conservative management.'"

EXTRACTS FROM JUDGE'S OPINION.

Knowing only the allegations of the petition for an injunction it is strange to me that any intelligent person could be found who would invest a dollar in this bank; and a prudent and honest Bank Examiner would never, on the information conveyed in this bill, make a report indorsing such a bank.

Why is it not shown that stockholders have equal rights as to voting or as to profits?

Are the officers borrowing? If in person or through concerns in which they are interested, then in what amounts?

Why does the bill not show that the stockholders, who own the bank, know the situation and are satisfied?

If a business is illegitimate, the fact that men of good reputation are connected with it does not lessen the evil, but largely aggravates it, because of the influence.

Calling a concern a bank does not make it a bank. The fact that parts of its business are legitimate does not give it a right to do an illegitimate business.

The bill recites that the concern is now profitable, but what showing is there that it will remain profitable?

Whoever posts an improper letter, quite properly can be sent to the penitentiary. The same is true of one who posts a letter in a scheme to defraud.

ROBBERS ATTEMPT TO DESTROY EYES

Negroes Throw Muriatic Acid When Victim Has but Thirty-Five Cents.

FACE AND HANDS BURNED

Fred Springmeyer Has Narrow Escape From Losing Sight in Public Street.

Fred Springmeyer, 1535 North Fourteenth street, member of No. 1 Salvage Corps, has two brown colored hands and two brown spots on his face to show now he has come through a narrow escape from losing his eyesight. Springmeyer threw up his hands and covered his eyes when a negro thug dashed the contents of a bottle of muriatic acid at his face.

Two negroes had seized him at the alley by St. Lawrence O'Toole's School, on Fourteenth street, between Biddle and McAllister streets and had seemed angry when they obtained only 35 cents by searching through his clothes.

Covered Eyes in Time.
"They said they wanted 'beer money,'" Springmeyer says. "When they had gone through my clothes, both of them let me go. One of them had had something in his hands all the time. I thought it was a pair of brass knuckles, and when he drew back I thought he intended to strike me. Then I saw it was a bottle and guessed his purpose."

I covered my eyes just in time to get the stuff, most of it, on my hands. Some touched my face above my nose.

George G. Marshall, 2000 West Market street, says he saw the man hit behind the ear and I fell to my knees. As I got up I began to feel the pain from the acid, though I was dazed by the blow. Needles seemed to be pricking my hands, attacking deeper every minute. I ran to a drug store on the next corner and by that time my hands felt like they were afire.

The clerk soaked my hands in some sort of solution that made them look like I had been walnut-hunting, but it removed the pain.

Just as I started for the drug store, I saw two men run across the street and chase the negroes up an alley. I don't know who they were."

FOUND DEAD MAN SITTING IN CHAIR

Lodger Refused to Go to Bed, Saying It Was Too Hot to Sleep.

The dead body of an unidentified man, sitting erect in a chair, was found by John Wolf, a roomer, in the office of the lodging house kept by James Charlier at 323 South Second street Thursday morning.

The dead man is said to have stopped at the house during the past two days and refused to retire Wednesday night, claiming that it was so hot he could not sleep in a bed. The body was taken to the morgue.

The stranger was apparently about 45 years old, five feet 5 inches in height, weighing 180 pounds, brown hair and mustache, gray eyes, wearing a blue shirt, dark pants, black shoes, a striped coat and a black soft hat. In his pockets were found 65 cents in money and a pocket knife.

FRISCO NEARS NEW YORK.

New Tehantepec Railroad Shortens Water and Rail Route.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 20.—The Tehantepec National Railroad from Salina Cruz on the Pacific side, to Coahuila on the Gulf of Mexico, 180 miles, is about completed.

The American-Hawaiian Steamship Co., now operating steamships between San Francisco, Hawaii and New York through the Straits of Magellan, has concluded a contract with the Tehantepec road for the operation of a connecting steamship line on both the Pacific and Atlantic sides, and will use these vessels now operated via the Straits of Magellan in this service, in addition to two new ships about to be ordered.

The company expects to afford a service of 2 days by the new route as against the 5 or 6 days now taken to transport freight between here and New York via Panama and approximately 20 days via American rail lines.

DISPUTE WORD OF POLICEMEN

Case Against Young Men Continued for Officers to Get Witnesses.

HAD TRIED TO SAVE GIRLS

Deny Assaulting Policemen Who Had Taken Their Friends Into Custody.

After the evidence against Harry Weisman of 29 North Ninth street, Meyer Katz of 129 North Seventh street and John Valenti of 189 North Washington street had been heard in Dayton Street Police Court Thursday, Judge Pollard continued the case until Friday, that a witness might be subpoenaed to corroborate the testimony of Patrolmen Burke and Crogan.

The three young men were arrested Saturday night, July 15, at Ninth and Washington streets, on a charge of interfering with an officer.

Patrolmen Burke and Crogan had arrested Meyer Katz and Mame Noonan at Ninth street and Lucas Avenue, while they were talking to Weisman and Katz. Burke, who says he is a relative of Mame Noonan, says he was warned the girls at least twenty times to keep away from that neighborhood, believing it to be an undesirable place for a woman to be.

After arresting the girls the policemen turned the young men to go away. Instead, they told the young men followed them to Ninth and Washington streets, where, reinforced by Valenti, they confronted the policemen.

After a brief argument with Weisman Burke says, Katz struck him and Weisman hit Crogan. In the meantime Meyer Katz ran away. The next morning Sunday they were rearrested by the two policemen while going home from church at Fifth street.

The young men deny that they interfered with the policemen or struck them.

WHITE PAINT FOR OLD COURT HOUSE

Dingy Structure to Get at Once First Coat in Fifteen Years.

The dingy dirt-colored Courthouse, by plans of Building Commissioner Smith, is to be once more to present the imposing appearance of its earlier days and stand forth in its pristine whiteness.

The Building Commissioner is going to paint it. He has his specifications ready for the Board of Public Improvements and figures that it will cost $600 to make the next of low look pretty again. The work can be done within 30 days, he thinks.

The building has not been painted for 15 years.

COUNTERFEITER CAPTURED.

Gregory Escaped on Way to Prison Going to California.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 20.—After successfully eluding the United States Secret Service men from Denver for some time, Harry Leonard, expert counterfeiter and escaped convict, has been captured here and taken to the United States authorities to serve out an unexpired term of five years in the Federal prison at Detroit, Mich.

For eight months past he has been living in his wife in this city. He had put out a flood of spurious U. S. coins, and was being watched by the police. He was captured and then jumped his bail.

At that time he was living under the name of Harry Leonard.

TWO KILLED, ONE HURT, TWO HIDING

Fatal Fight Follows Attempt to Stop Sale of Drink to Husbands at Batavia, Ill.

CHICAGO, July 20.—Two women, who attempted to take their husbands from a saloon in Batavia, Ill., started a fight in which two men were killed and the saloon demolished.

John Sutton, James Sutton, his brother, and James McDonald, had been in the place drinking for two days. The wives of the Sutton brothers appeared and warned Edward Mulroy, proprietor of the place, to sell no more drinks to the men.

Mulroy only laughed. He set out a round of drinks which he said was "on the house," and this so maddened the women that they destroyed the bottles and glasses. Mulroy ordered them out and the husbands attacked him and his bartender.

The fight that followed lasted half an hour. When it was finished the whole interior was a wreck. McDonald was dead, and James Sutton died from a fractured skull a few hours later. Ed Heenan, the bartender, was laid out with a broken arm and jaw. Mulroy and John Sutton are fugitives. The women were not injured.

MORMON LEADER HELD ON CHARGES

John Q. Cannon Accused of Forgery While Secretary of Utah Fair Commission.

SALT LAKE, Utah, July 20.—John Q. Cannon, member of a prominent Mormon family, is under arrest at Lehi, bridge, N. W. T., where he was taken into custody Saturday on request of Police Chief William Lynch of Salt Lake.

Cannon is accused of forging and uttering fraudulent checks while secretary of the Utah-St. Louis Fair Commission last year. The amount of the shortage was about $100. The affairs of the commission were subjected to investigation by the Legislature last February. Cannon disappeared when the investigation began and has just been located.

It is charged that he forged the name of former Gov. Wells, his brother-in-law, and ex-officio chairman of the commission, to several checks. Relatives reimbursed the commission for its loss, but Cannon fled rather than face the criminal charge. He is a son of George Q. Cannon, formerly the leading spirit of the Mormon Church.

John Q. Cannon was Brigadier-General of the Utah National Guard until Jan. 1, and was Lieutenant-Colonel of Torrey's Rough Riders during the Spanish war. He was formerly editor of the Desert News, the official organ of the Mormon Church, and has been prominent in Utah for many years.

LOCKJAW FROM TOY PISTOL SHOT

Evansville Lad Dies From Injury to Hand, Which Seemed to Be Trifling.

A telegram received in St. Louis Thursday told of the death, from lockjaw, of Fred Sauer, 10-year-old son of William Sauer, President of the Sauer Milling Co. of Evansville, Ill.

Tetanus resulted from a seemingly trifling injury from a blank cartridge. The boy was showing his father how he could shoot with a toy pistol. After he had snapped it twice it was discharged with the muzzle pointing toward the palm of his left hand. The boy was immediately taken to a doctor, but as the skin did not seem to have been broken, it was not thought that there was danger.

Three days later the hand became painful and doctors were summoned from Chester and St. Louis. In spite of the efforts of three of these boys died after terrible suffering.

The father of the boy is well known in St. Louis, being a member of the Merchants' Exchange. The dead boy was his favorite son.

BOMB FELL SHORT OF VICE-GOVERNOR

Finland Police Unable to Find Would-Be Assassin of Deutch.

HELSINKI, Finland, July 20.—No trace has been found of the man who threw the bomb that so nearly killed Vice-Governor Deutch yesterday.

The Governor will recover. He was burned about the legs and bled from body wounds, but none of them are serious. He was taken home from the police station, where he went immediately after the explosion.

The attempt to assassinate was made two hours after Karl Leonard Holmstrom had been sentenced to imprisonment for life at hard labor for the assassination of Procurator-General Soisalo on Feb. 6 last.

The Vice-Governor had walked across the square, when suddenly, as he neared the Police Master's office, a man on the curb threw a bomb from a distance of 20 paces.

The bomb fell short, but the Vice-Governor was blown off his feet by the terrific force of the explosion, which shattered the windows in the neighborhood for a distance of hundreds of yards.

WIFE GONE WITH A YOUTH OF 13

Michigan Supposed Elopement Similar to the Rogers-Ely Affair.

LEAVES FOUR CHILDREN

Mother Disappears With Boy Who Wheeled Her in Invalid Chair.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., July 20.—A case similar to the Rogers-Ely affair, which stirred Chicago recently, lies in what apparently is a sensational elopement from Ypsilanti, that of a married woman and a youth of tender years.

Mrs. Charles Kohlisch, 29 years old, wife of a sidewalk builder and mother of four children, and Carl Peffer, 13 years old, son of Orson Peffer, have disappeared.

A few weeks ago Mrs. Kohlisch was taken ill with appendicitis, and an operation was performed. After she was able to sit up Mr. Kohlisch engaged a young Peffer to wheel her around in an invalid chair. About three weeks ago the husband came home unexpectedly and found his wife in her room with young Peffer sitting beside her. He remonstrated with them and ordered the boy out.

Yesterday came the climax. Mr. Kohlisch came home and found his wife gone. She had taken her clothes and the pictures of her father and mother. The children were left alone. Going over to Peffer's home, he found young Carl had also disappeared.

The police were notified, and this morning Orson Peffer, father of the boy, came to Ann Arbor and swore out a warrant charging his son with being a truant. Mr. Kohlisch accompanied him, and took out a warrant against Mrs. Kohlisch charging her with deserting her children.

Can He Support Wives, Question

Served Catechised by Judge as to Ability to Provide for Double Allowance.

Winifred Scott Serven was examined in Judge Douglas' division of the Circuit Court relative to his ability to support two wives. More specifically he was catechised with reference to his ability to pay $25 a month alimony to his former wife while supporting his present wife.

Mrs. Ida Serven was given a divorce from Serven Dec. 8, 1904, but it has not been paid. A month after the divorce was granted Serven married a Miss Wickwire. The first wife's attorney filed a motion some time ago to require Serven to submit himself to an examination on his ability to pay the alimony and the examination took place Thursday.

Serven testified that as general agent of a guarantee and accident company he received $50 to $75 a month, averaging $60 a month. He admitted that he took under a judgment a motion that he be required to pay the alimony.

The couple were married in 1929. He sued for divorce, alleging that she deserted him in 1930. She filed a cross bill, alleging that he deserted her on Thanksgiving Day, 1931. His suit was dismissed and she obtained the decree. When Serven was married the second time he lived at 428F Cook avenue.

Earlier Departure.

SAYS HE WAS ROBBED.

Tells Police He Was Robbed of $80 in Public Street.

As John Wohl, a stranger in the city, came out of the saloon of A. Albrecht, 300 South Second street, at 2:30 Thursday morning he was held up and robbed of $80 by two young men who then ran away.

Wohl reported the robbery to the police, who later arrested Novel Frost, aged 18, and George Scott, aged 19, on suspicion. The men were identified by Wohl, but the police are doubtful of the identification, owing to the fact, they say, that Wohl was intoxicated.

They accordingly kept Wohl in the holdover and will investigate the case further when he becomes sober.

As John Maloney, a deckhand on the steamer Beta, was walking on the levee at the foot of Market street Wednesday night, he was held up and robbed of two negroes. The police arrested John Thomas, colored, and say that Maloney has identified him as one of the two negroes who robbed him.

Attempts Hanging in Cell.

COULDN'T GET COOL, WANTED TO DIE

Woman Who Took Laudanum Says Hot Weather Just Disgusted Her.

Mrs. Lily Schlottmann, recovering at the City Hospital from the effects of a 10 cents worth of laudanum taken Wednesday night with suicidal intent, says she wanted to die because she could not keep cool.

"It disgusted me," she said. "I was hot all the time. I couldn't enjoy life feeling that way, so I thought I would end it. I am separated from my husband, but that doesn't worry me any."

Mrs. Schlottmann is 29 years old, short of stature, weighs probably 150 pounds and has an unusually large and short neck. She lives at 981 North Twenty-first street with her sister, Mrs. Grace Wiltitt. The ambulance happened to be passing her home when the alarm was given and hurried with her to the hospital.

Blume Funeral Held.

The funeral of Mrs. Mary Blume, aged 60, was held Thursday morning from the German Methodist Church at Edwardville, Rev. J. G. Hildebrand officiated. Mrs. Blume succumbed to a cancer of the stomach and had lived 45 days without a particle of food. She lived on the country road between Edwardville and Colleville. She is survived by one sister, Mrs. Fred Basche of Madison.

Paul Finnegan, 51 years old and weighing 200 pounds, fell 30 feet when a ladder twisted with him at a building at Grand and Washington avenues Thursday, and escaped, seemingly, with a skinned arm and a shaking up. Finnegan is a carpenter, and was at work on the third floor. He started

KANSAS TREASURY NEEDS GUARDIAN

Gov. Hoch Has Asked Senator Benedict to Accept If Kelly Fails.

TOPEKA, Kan., July 20.—"Gov. Hoch," said one of his friends tonight, "does not know whether Treasurer Kelly is able to give the bond required of him or not. If he can not give the bond on Friday, the Governor will declare the office vacant, and it will then be his duty to appoint a successor."

The indications are that Kelly will give the bond, but the Governor can not take chances, and he has had candidates in here during the last three days, consulting with them. He is now fully prepared to act.

The Governor has told his friends that the business of handling the State treasury affairs is not a political question with him.

The bond to be given is for $100,000. The man who is under consideration for the place is Senator B. M. Benedict of Wilson, R. N. Allen of Neosho, Charles Hull of Phillips and J. W. Knight of Geary.

The Governor favors Senator Benedict, and had the Senator here yesterday for a conference. Benedict will refuse to take the place unless the Governor can not find another available man.

S. P. C. A. PLEADS FOR RATS

Avow Rodents Are Entitled to Humanitarian Treatment and Protest Incineration.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. COLUMBUS, O., July 20.—Even a rat is entitled to humanitarian consideration, says the Columbus Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. West Side residents have complained that rats from the city dump swarm into their houses. The dump is alive with the rodents and the city authorities are about to pour coal oil over it and set it afire to destroy them.

The S. P. C. A. protests, but only a high wind prevailing prevented the cremation of the rat colony today.

"Growler Rushing" Ends at Order of Mayor Who Dislikes "Shooting Can"

There is to be no more "canning" of beer in North Alton. Mayor John Davis has decreed that the "growler" must go. The Mayor has given instructions to the Marshal, William Talzer, to arrest all who undertake to drink beer out of buckets in public places and to be no respecter of persons.

Mayor Davis says he is opposed to all public drinking in general and to drinking from buckets in particular. "Beer canning is a bad practice," he said Thursday. "Nothing in particular has occurred of late to cause the order to be issued. An instance of beer can-

MISSING GIRL SAID SHE'D RETURN HOME.

JULIA WILLIAMS.

"I will never go back home alive," said 15-year-old Julia Williams, daughter of Andrew Williams of 300 Russell avenue, after leaving her home Saturday morning because she thought her stepmother was too strict with her. She was seen by her father Sunday and told him that she would be home within an hour. She had gone to her grandmother's residence, 1350 Leffingwell avenue, where she spent Saturday night, and Mr. Williams found her there.

According to her grandmother's story the girl took a Class avenue car soon after the interview with her father, saying that she was going home, and this is the last that has been seen of her.

Her alarmed family have asked the police to look for her, and her uncle, Deputy Sheriff Gus Buerger, has enlisted his fellow deputies in the search for her.

Her description is as follows: Dark brown hair, dark brown eyes, 5 feet in height, medium figure, wearing a roll, and had on a blue skirt with white dots and a white shirtwaist when last seen.

WIFE, WANTED INSURANCE

Murderers of West Virginia Farmer Confess and Tell Why They Killed Him.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. PARKERSBURG, W. Va., July 20.—The details of the most horrible crime ever committed in West Virginia are being brought to light in the Circuit Court of Calhoun County. On the night of May 3 Henry Blackshire, a prosperous farmer and miller of Brookville, was murdered in his own home by masked men who dragged him from his bed and shot him to death before the eyes of his wife and little son.

Lewis Hendricks and Bob McCroskey, neighbors of Blackshire, have confessed they killed him, pleaded guilty to the charge of murder in the first degree and have been sentenced to life imprisonment.

Hendricks and McCroskey testified that they were employed by Mrs. Blackshire to kill her husband so she could get his life insurance, and that she held the light so that they could see him. On their testimony she was indicted.

"PIKE" TO BE DISGUISED.

Real Article at Jefferson Carnival Under Another Name.

Commencing at noon Saturday, July 29, and continuing until midnight Sunday, Aug. 1, the Jefferson Club will hold a carnival at Handlan's Park, Grand and Ladue avenues.

Laborate arrangements for this mid-summer night's festival are being made by the Entertainment Committee of the large Democratic organization, of which Ben J. Selkirk is chairman and Joe D. McCarthy secretary.

The feature of the carnival will be a "Pike," patterned after that at the World's Fair, known as a "Egyptian Colonnade."

It will contain a number of interesting exhibits and "shows," including a temple of mystery, a pigmy village, Parisian dancing girls, a German village and an electrical palace.

In addition there will be a three-ring circus among the attractions, and on one day of the carnival Miss Lucille Mulhall will give an exhibition of rough riding.

The proceeds of the carnival will be used to defray the expenses of refurbishing the clubhouse at Grand avenue and West Pine boulevard.

THIEF GRABS FOOT OF WOMAN ASLEEP

Mrs. Ufer Awakened When Burglar Closes Fingers on Pedal Extremity.

EX-POLICEMAN ARRESTED

Intruder Would Have Been Caught in Room but for Husband's Sound Sleep.

Mrs. Rudolph Ufer of 1115 Lynch street awoke about 2:30 a. m. Wednesday to find that a man had hold of her foot.

She thought at first that it was her husband, but the next moment she saw that he was asleep by her side. Then she screamed and the man let go.

He jumped for an open window and Mrs. Ufer began pounding her husband to awaken him. But Mr. Ufer was sleeping the sleep of a just man, with an easy conscience, and it took at least two minutes to arouse him.

In the meantime the strange man who had grasped Mrs. Ufer's foot was entangled in the lace curtain at the window and wriggling like a fish in a net in his frantic efforts to disengage himself. Finally he succeeded, sprang out into the yard and disappeared, but not until Mrs. Ufer had got a good look at him.

Thursday Policeman Joseph Sherman of the Wyoming Street Police Station arrested Joseph Schuster, aged 30, of 1129 Lynch street, on suspicion of having committed the burglary or assault.

But Mrs. Ufer could not positively identify Schuster, so Dalton issued a warrant for trespass only, and Schuster, who is an ex-policeman, will be arraigned in the City Hall Police Court Friday.

Mr. Ufer's trousers were hanging over the foot of the bed, and Mrs. Ufer believes that the burglar was feeling for them, when he grasped her foot instead.

At the Dawn.

A history of seven hours told in seven chapters,
By IVAN WHIN.

SYNOPSIS OF PRECEDING CHAPTERS.
Madame Hinton occupies the back parlor of a Market street house, and tells for the first time to a caller, a young man, the story of her life. She has recently sold a lock of hair to a customer for $100, and celebrates her fortune with Jim and Hazel Lottus, variety performers. In the front parlor, Lora, a beautiful blonde, calls for her and takes her away. Hazel notes that in going out Madame Hinton is not wearing her diamond brooch and earrings, and searches the back parlor for them. She has just closed the sliding doors when the Madame appears, wearing the diamonds. She has a client, who proves to be Lucian Erskine, her former husband. His flightiness and she calls for help. The Lottus sisters and he throw the Madame out, and she goes to the back parlor. Lucian Erskine, her former husband, is a fortune teller. He believes Erskine lost the fortune teller's house. He is very much afraid of Erskine, and refuses to accompany her to the fortune teller's house. Lora admits Lora and is ordered to bed by her. He hears her say to the Madame that she wants an understanding.

CHAPTER IV.

The Wreck of a Man.

"I HEAR my father!"
Lora, seated in the dingy, plush rocker, hurried the question at the fortune teller on the bed.

"No."
The answer came after a moment's hesitation, during which the old woman struggled against the stronger will of the girl who compelled her to speak.

"Is Gene Cerre my father?"
"No, no, no," the Madame's tone was low, but tense with agitation.

"Tell the truth. It is Cerre."

"Yes, yes."
"Then Lucian Erskine has no claim of any kind on me. Well, I have suspected it a long time. I couldn't account for Gene Cerre being always hanging around us unless he had been your lover."

"We were married, legally married."

"When?"

"Before I ever saw Lucian."

"Were you divorced afterward?"

"Not legally."

"Do on, tell me."

"Lucian applied for a divorce in my name and the clerk of the court entered a note in his record that a decree was granted, but I signed nothing, never went to court and no judge ever heard the case."

"Was there no trial?"

"None, I tell you."

"Did Gene Cerre know this?"

"No, he thought the decree was all right."

"There is something back of this. Tell me how it happened."

"It is very simple. Lucian saw me at the Charity ball at the Lindell. He was rich then and Gene had lost nearly everything he had, including his nerve. Gene was flabby and lax and lazy, and drank more than was good for him. He was drunk that evening and I was mad for a good time. I flirted with Lucian. He was dreadfully in earnest. We went with a party to Forest Park and woke the waiters and cooks at the Cottage and had breakfast there at daylight. We got home near noon. Gene was waiting for me at the door. He tried to be in a rage, but he was only pettish. Lucian knocked him down and carried him and took me back to the kitchen and to his rooms. I rebelled, but he mastered me. I was afraid of him. The first person I had ever been afraid of in my life. We were only two months old. I went home and got you one afternoon. I had not seen you for a week and was nearly crazy to get you in my arms. I watched the house for hours till I was sure Gene was not there, then I went in and fought with Mazzal, the nurse, for you. Mazzal's people had been slaves in the Cerre family for generations, and she never liked me. She tore my hair and scratched my face, but I choked her nearly to death and took you and ran. Lucian fixed up the divorce and then we were married. Gene went South to some kinfolk and I didn't see him for years. Then Lucian had lost all his money and was gambling for a living. We had a game in our house and I joined the suckers. One night Gene came in. He looked nearly as old as he is now. His hair was just as white and he looked the part of the nice old gentleman. He had been a tool of Lucian's for months and I didn't know it. He was a capper for our game. He never had much nerve, but now he was a piece of putty in Lucian's hands.

"Lucian used us all without conscience, you and me and Gene. He robbed men right and left and we had to make it look square. Then he killed Leftwich, who thought I was serious when he made love to me, and had to run away. You remember that. I tried to keep the game going, but luck was against me, and I took to telling fortunes. He did as he pleased with us, beat us, made us work for him while he was here, and time and again since he ran away he has sent me for money that I've had to steal to satisfy him. I hadn't heard a word from him for nearly four years, and I thought he was dead, but now I know why I didn't hear."

"Why?"

"He's been in some penitentiary. I know the look convicts get. He has been in on a five-years' term somewhere and got out on commutation. He'll bound us to death now."

"Not me."

"He'll ruin you."

"He can't. I'll tell the police he is here."

"Lora, darling! don't do it," cried the woman, and her terror was a fearful thing to see.

Lora stared at her coldly. "So you believe I always knew it. Which of you actually killed him? Bah! Don't touch me."

"Lora, you won't tell," whispered the miserable old woman.

"No, I won't tell, but I'll shoot."

"Yes, yes, shoot him. Take my gun. It's in the bureau, in the top drawer under the handkerchiefs. Good. It's a pretty gun, but it'll shoot."

They heard the sound of someone beating on the door and heard Lottus answer the call. There were voices in the hall and a knock at the Madame's door.

Lora held the revolver behind her and Madame called, "Who is there?"

"The Madame." It was the landlady's voice.

"I'm in bed."

"I just wanted to know you were all right. Mr. Lottus was telling me what a providence that he was here. We were all out to the garden together. Wasn't it funny that everyone should go out to the same place and me not out of the house in years at night?"

She rambled on, gossiping to the blank door all the way upstairs.

When she was silent another sound disturbed them.

It was a scratching at the door and they looked with wide eyes, their hearts beating furiously. Presently the door they thought locked swung open and an old negro woman entered.

"Howdy, Miss Pickney," she said, bobbing toward the Madame.

"Mazzal!"

"Yes, miss, that who 'tis. You got pow'tell memory. I didn't spec' you'd remember Mazzal. Is this all Miss Lora? Lor', chile, you don't 'member you ole mammy."

"How did you get in here?"

The fortune teller was standing very straight and her tone was very direct.

"Jes' come along in with the folks. I told um I had to see you all and they say that she is and in I come."

"What do you want?"

"My Massa Gene. I done come to take care of him."

"He isn't here."

"Sure he is, honey. I know. Mr. Lucian told me he here."

"What? Lucian away tonight when Mr. Lucian came?"

"Mamma Gene ran away from them white trash." Her words were brave, but in her heart she knew Gene Cerre's weakness. Where he got his asked, pitifully.

"I don't know."

"He came to bring me here, but he was afraid to come back and went to some refuge to hide till that man should disappear again."

"Why he scared of Mr. Lucian?"

"I don't know, only that man is a brute and we're all afraid of him."

The Blood-Red Laughter.

BY LEONARD ANDREJEV.

N EARLY all the horses and all the men were wounded or dead. And it is just the same at the Eighth Battery. One battery—the Twelfth—had on the third day only three serviceable guns left; the others had been shot to pieces, and only six men and an officer (myself) were still able to fight.

During the last 24 hours none of us closed an eye or tasted a bit of food, and for three times this hell of noise and blood and fire had lasted. Our dead were all around us, covering the ground everywhere, while we few survivors were walking about like shadows.

Our movements were carried out with precision; our commands rang out clear and distinct; but if you should have asked any of us who and where he was, it is 10 to 1 that his benumbed brain would have been unable to find an answer. The faces around him all looked familiar enough, as in a dream; but when I looked at any certain man or gun, or listened to the roar and din of the battle, everybody and everything appeared weird and unreal.

The night came without any of us noticing it, and hardly had we begun to realize it and ask ourselves how it could have come thus suddenly, when it was dawn again.

Only from our comrades of another battery we heard that the battle had lasted three days. To us it seemed like one long day without beginning and without end—a day which was sometimes light and sometimes dark. And not one of us feared death—for not one of us realized what death was.

During the third or fourth night, I do not remember which, I laid down behind an entrenchment, and no sooner had I closed my eyes than I saw before me a well-known sight—the blue wall paper of my den, and the untouched, dusty decanter with brandy on my table. In the next room—I could see it right through the wall, though I did not think this strange at all—my wife and little son were sitting, a lamp was burning on the table in front of them, so it must be evening. I kept on looking at all the little details, the brandy in the decanter, the silver and white pattern in the wall paper—I had never thought I knew my room so well—and all the time I was wondering why my little boy was not in bed. It was not until I opened my eyes and saw the dark, cloudy sky above me, with the streaks of fire of the shells, and I closed them again to see once more the familiar room and wonder why my boy was not asleep.

A shell exploded close to me, my legs were pushed violently aside by some invisible power, and somebody cried out so loud that I could hear it above the roar of the guns and the bursting of the shells.

"Ag—somebody killed," I thought without any feeling of concern, and again I looked at the blue wallpaper and the untouched decanter.

Then I stood up, walking around, gave my orders, looked at the faces of my men, aimed a gun at the enemy's position, all the time wondering why my son was not in bed.

Once I asked one of the men about it, and he began to give me a long explanation which neither he nor I understood, though we both nodded our heads.

It was bright daylight once more when it suddenly began to rain—rain

"Is you married, honey?"
Lora blushed fiercely. "No, Mazzal."
The negro took her hand and patted it. "Honey, I see got money. I come to get you paw take him away. The railroad buy my pine and I see rich. You come with me and I see you paw. Mr. Lucian never catch us where we go."
Lora's bright head fell upon the negro's shoulder and she sobbed in the close embrace of her mammy's black arms.

"O. O," she moaned, "I can't, Mazzal. Don't tempt me. It won't do any good. You watch out for things while I go to look her up." She never stayed away so long before.
"What time is it?" asked the Madame.
"One o'clock."
"Did she have any money?"
"Two dollars."
"She said she was sick of this life. Perhaps—think she's killed herself!"
Lora cried.

I'm afraid something has happened to her. She went to the drug store. Will you watch out for things while I go to look her up? She never stayed away so long before.
"What time is it?" asked the Madame.
"One o'clock."
"Did she have any money?"
"Two dollars."
"She said she was sick of this life. Perhaps—think she's killed herself!"
Lora cried.

"No-o. But she may have gone away for good. I feel that she has. If she had money, I'd be sure."
Lottus thought of her search for diamonds and was convinced.
He ran out of the house hatless and searched the neighborhood unavailingly.
As he left the house a man slipped in through the unlocked door.

THE UNROMANTIC WIDOWER BY NIXOLA GREELEY-SMITH.

THE fascination of the widow is proverbial. Why is it that her masculine counterpart, the recently bereaved husband, should be so generally devoid of anything resembling her charm?

Of course, the widower is a worthy member of society, and his second very generally has far more reason to thank her matrimonial stars than his first.

But he is not, he cannot be, in any sense, an object of romance. Even the novelist can do nothing for him. Thackeray tried it, and scored his worst failure. For who reads "Tonell, the Widower," nowadays? And I, personally, have never forgiven him for foisting the commonplace Rosie upon the defenseless Clive Newcomb when he might just as well have had Ethel in the first place.

Dickens made the widower more palatable in Copperfield. But after all, our interest in David's first unhappy experiment with his dear little child-wife Dora far exceeds that we take in his subsequent marriage to Agnes, charming and lovable as Dickens tried to make her.

There is something altogether inexplicable in the widower's lack of romance. We have all seen the most commonplace little housewife transformed by the sad accident of widowhood into a person of bewildering charm without being able to tell whether it is the illuminating touch of sorrow or of black that has brought the metamorphosis about.

It may be that the widower's lack of the charm so prevalent and so potent among widows is due to the absence of becoming weeds. Why isn't there some masculine equivalent for the widow's fascinating toggery? Of course, no mourning is better than the frightful rattlesnake arrangement of bands on the arm. But it is to be feared that even a whole mourning trousseau made by a London tailor would not take from the widower his dear prosaism.

Of course the widower, despite his unromantic handicap, has no trouble in getting married again. Indeed, in his widowhood he is like so many of the fairy-tale princesses, our old friend the Sleeping Beauty and others—destined to marry the first person his eyes open on.

Instead of exclaiming in woty horror when one of our widower friends marries his cook we should give thanks that he saw her before the scullery maid or one of the poor old women that grind music and misery on a street corner for the distraction of the charitably inclined.

It really seems that when a woman becomes a widow she is like a grub suddenly transformed into a butterfly. But with a man the reverse process takes place, and the winged playfellow of the rose garden becomes a sad, dull, earth-colored grub, waiting patiently for some woman—any woman—to come along, that he may go on grubbing for a living for her.
